ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGE'S RULING
REGARDING PROVISION OF CUSTOMER SPECIFIC INFORMATION

On July 22, 2002, Pacific Bell Telephone Company (Pacific) made an oral motion requesting a ruling from the assigned Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) regarding a discovery request Pacific had received from AT&T Communications of California, Inc. (AT&T) and WorldCom, Inc. (WorldCom). AT&T and WorldCom have propounded discovery requests (namely DR 401) that to answer would require Pacific to provide customer-specific information that is potentially covered by § 2891 of the Public Utilities Code and/or § 222 of the Federal Telecommunications Act. Both of those statutes provide that certain customer information can be provided as required by the law. (See Pub. Util. Code § 2891(d)(7), § 47 U.S.C. 222(c)(1).)

The parties have executed nondisclosure agreements that preclude use of confidential information for any purposes related to marketing. Pacific proposes it provide the customer information as confidential information under the terms of these nondisclosure agreements. Pacific represents that AT&T and WorldCom agree with this proposal.

Good cause having been shown, IT IS RULED that Pacific shall provide the customer-specific information requested in DR 401 to AT&T and WorldCom as confidential information under the protections of the signed nondisclosure agreements.

Dated July 25, 2002, at San Francisco, California.
